SUGAR IN JAMAICA

New York, July 3. — A. H. Miles is one of the party of four Jamaicans who are staying at the Fifth Avenue hotel. They are on official business from the Colonial Government at Kingston, and have just returned from Washington. Dispatches from Washington state that the delegation was sent to confer with the authorities there with a view to obtaining a reduction in the tariff on sugar. Washington dispatches furnish additional information to the effect that they have been ordered to Canada to carry on negotiations with the Government at Ottawa. Mr. Miles says the sugar raising industry in Jamaica is almost at a standstill.

"In the latter part of the last century," he said, "Jamaica turned out 150,000 hogheads of sugar annually. That was when we had cattle, mills, and the old ringer process, putting the hogheads in tiers, and let the molasses drain out. Now we have steam machinery and centrifugal machines for drying the sugar—not quite up to date, to be sure, but infinitely superior to the old method—and yet we turn out only 25,000 hogheads of sugar annually."

"The United States is, of course, our principal market and the tariff is so high that the small plantations will not pay. Cuban planters manage to make it pay because they carry on business on a larger scale. We cannot dispose of our sugar in England because the English consumers are supplied at less than cost with the continental beet sugar on which France and Germany give a big bounty. The United States will be supplied with the same kind of sugar some day but it will be a long time yet."

"The principal industry in Jamaica now is fruit growing. Bananas are being grown there in large quantities and citrus fruits which are indigenous to the country are being carefully cultivated. Since the seventies the fruit trade has been increasing rapidly. We now have five steamers plying between Jamaica and Philadelphia, Boston and Baltimore for the sole accommodation of this branch of commerce."

"Never Burn a Candle at Both Ends"
If you do your light will soon be gone, and you will be in the dark. Don't think you can go on drawing vitality from the blood for nerves, stomach, brain, and muscle without doing something to replace it. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives nerve, mental and digestive strength by enriching and vitalizing the blood. Thus it helps the people who are overworked and tired.
Hood's Pills are non-irritating, mild, effective.
